About the Cover

Photographer: Abraham Bergman, MD, Seattle, Washington, April 2009.

The education of Maasai children is complicated by several factors: (1) the isolation of their villages; (2) all too many children coming to school hungry; (3) the fact that more than 80% of the girls do not pursue education beyond the primary level; and (4) the fact that the indigenous language of the Maasai, Maa, is not allowed to be spoken in schools supported by the government, resulting in a high proportion of young children not understanding the instruction. To address these problems, the independent Maasai Girls' School was established in March 2008. It is located on the northern border of the Maasai Mara Game Reserve in southwest Kenya and serves 175 girls between the ages of 5 and 12 years. Call for Photographs

Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine is always seeking interesting cover photographs. Since many of our readers are excellent amateur photographers, we would appreciate submissions of high-quality photographs. Please e-mail them as attachments in .jpg or .tif format to archpediatrics@jama-archives.org or, if necessary, mail them to Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine, University of Washington, Child Health Institute, 6200 NE 74th St, Ste 120B, Seattle, WA 98115-8160. Contact Suzanne Shuey, editorial manager, with any questions at (206) 685-3573.
